BIRTHDAY SURPRISE

NORTH GLENDALE LADY VICTIM OF SURPRISE ON 65TH BIRTHDAY

Last Saturday Mrs. M. N. Barnett of 125 South Kenwood street celebrated her sixty-fifth birthday and in honor of the occasion some thirty-five of her many friends and neighbors gave her a most complete surprise. The charming honoree had comfortably settled down to an evening's enjoyment with her former pastor and wife, Rev. and Mrs. C. R. Norton, who were enlightened in regard to the surprise, and who most ably assisted in the success of the occasion. When the doorbell went clang, and in response to the ring the door was opened and, well, such a surprise! About half of the congregation of the Casa Verdugo M. E. church was seeking admittance, with other friends who came laden with fragrant flowers and delicious refreshments. The chosen motif was red and green carnations and phlox with ferns were quickly arranged in the vases and were placed upon mantels and tables. The beautiful birthday cake was baked by Mrs. H. M. Stadler and was decorated with the necessary number of red and white candles. Music and social conversation was enjoyed during the evening, while the most important event was the presentation of a beautiful Japanese basket filled with spicy red carnations, this being done by Rev. Norton, who in a few well chosen remarks in behalf of the donors handed the gift to the happy lady, who responded in her own well-known manner. Mrs. R. D. Jones gave two readings to the delight of all present and Miss May Hirschi rendered several selections on the piano. Among those present who wished their friend many happy returns of the day were Mrs. P. Jensen, Mrs. A. C. Oliver, Mrs. C. C. Butterfield, Mr. and Mrs. George Tyrrell, Rev. and Mrs. C. R. Norton, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Fryer and son Lloyd, Mrs. Blanche Coughran, Miss Gertrude Bottsford of Pomona, Mrs. H. M. Stadler, Mrs. J. W. Henderson, Mrs. Clara Robinson and daughter Margaret, Mrs. Minnie Muller, Mrs. A. Hirschi, Miss Mary Hirschi, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Benson, Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Jones, Mr. B. D. Lord, Mr. Charles Tyrrell, Mrs. W. M. Hadsell, Miss Lillian Smith, Mrs. J. E. Eckles, Miss Mary Pierce, Mrs. O. E. Wright and daughter Ruth, Miss Goldie Drake and Miss Adele Drake, all of Glendale and North Glendale.

Messrs. Hugh Blue, Arthur Campbell, W. G. Cook, Jack Johnson and F. F. Balthis, all well-known North Glendale men, returned last Friday from a delightful motor trip north to Mono county, where they were guests of L. C. Brand, who is having built a beautiful summer home about fifty miles from the railroad amid the most beautiful of northern scenery, with its snow-capped mountains and silvery lakes, with fishing thrown in for good measure. Several days were spent with the genial host, who left nothing undone for the comfort and pleasure of the favored guests. The trip was enjoyable from start to finish, the motorists traveling about seven hundred and sixty-seven miles and were about four and a half days enroute. No accidents occurred to mar the enjoyment of the trip.

Mr. J. H. House of Ruth street met with quite a painful accident while getting off the boat running from Catalina Island last Thursday. Becoming dizzy from sea sickness, Mr. House attempted to land and fell forward striking his face upon the railing, rendering him unconscious. We are very glad to announce that Mr. House is rapidly recovering from the injury and will soon be able to resume business.

Mrs. E. F. Clements and baby daughter Ethel Mae, also Mrs. Clements' mother, Mrs. J. Kauson, of Lindsay, Cal., are house guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Clements of 1321 North Pacific avenue.

Miss Ruby F. Wright and sister, Miss Olive Wright, of 1649 Ruth street, were guests of their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Wright, of Florencita Park, last Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. George Tyrrell of 1640 Ruth street entertained at a prettily appointed dinner Sunday Rev. M. K. Stone, Mr. Will Martin and Mr. Corbin of Los Angeles.

Mrs. Allan Fairchild of 1321 Arden avenue, with Mrs. Williams of Burchett street, enjoyed the matinee at the Morosco last Saturday afternoon, witnessing "The Moneygetters."

Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Stanton and three children of Fresno are house guests of Mrs. Stanton's mother, Mrs. Ella Kimball, of 1015 North Central avenue at the present time.

Mr. and Mrs. George Leas of 5883 San Pedro street, Los Angeles, and Mrs. Mary Wilhelm, also Mr. Richard Campbell of Sawtelle, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Wright Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. J. E. Eckles of 920 North Central avenue and Mrs. R. D. Jones of Dryden street enjoyed the Orpheum last Saturday afternoon.

WITH THE CHURCHES

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

The twilight communion service on Sunday evening was a fitting climax to the week's series of pre-communion services. The attendance was the largest in the history of the church. An interesting feature was the twenty-six elders, who occupied front seats. Nine of these compose the active local board, the others having been active elders in other Presbyterian churches. The large percentage of men in this congregation is a matter of common comment. Sixteen new members were received, which makes the Glendale church tenth in membership among the Presbyterian churches in the Los Angeles Presbytery. The next communion service will be held in October, at which time some twenty additional members will be received.

The reception to new members will occur next Thursday evening at 7:30. The C. E. Society will be in charge and will present a program which will reveal something new under the sun. The entire membership of the church and congregation will be present at this time.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH

The sermon by Rev. N. Jackson Wright Sunday morning on "A Full Gospel" was listened to with deep interest. The thought of brotherhood and the great need of ministering to and caring for the weaker member, both in a spiritual and material way, was strongly emphasized. That the gospel is not only a gospel of evangelism, but a gospel of righteous living and of uplift, was the fact that was most forcibly presented.

Mr. Wright is a man of deep thought and clear presentation and the church was indeed fortunate in having him within its ranks to occupy the pulpit in the enforced absence of the pastor.

At the evening hour Mrs. Hagin gave a very interesting talk on the experiences in Japan of herself and husband, which was heard by a large audience. She reports that the work has been much harder during the past four years, but Mr. Hagin remains because he has work on hand which is full of rich promise.

Mr. Wright also taught the men's class, which had thirty-seven members present. It is hard to maintain the attendance at what it ought to be during the summer months, so it is to be hoped that every active member will keep hard at work. A conference of the members of the class is called for next Thursday evening at the church. Every man who can be there is urged to be present. The Endeavorers had a splendid meeting Sunday and are much encouraged. There is an awakened interest in this department of the church work. They would like to announce that a splendid meeting of valley Endeavorers will be held in the form of a "banquette" at the First Christian church, corner of Eleventh and Hope streets, Los Angeles, on Friday evening, July 27th, at 7 p. m. The principal speaker will be Dr. Royal J. Dye of Bolenga, Africa, the great missionary of the Christian church. Doubtless a number of people from Glendale will attend.

The prayer meeting on Wednesday evening has for a subject, "Paul's First Missionary Journey." Let every member who can be present and make it an interesting study.

LOCAL FIRM INTERESTED IN NEW TOWNSITE

One of the chief investors in the new townsite of Seville, says the Los Angeles Times, is a Glendale firm.

The Bently-Schoeneman Lumber company of Glendale has purchased an entire block of the townsite on Kern street, adjoining the railroad right-of-way, and will establish a large lumber yard at once. Work began on the water plant the last of the week, materials being already on the ground.

Mr. Paul V. Tuttle and son Maxwell of 1417 West Broadway, together with Mr. W. Angel of Los Angeles, have returned from a splendid camping trip at Little Bear Lake, where they motored several days ago.

GLENDALE PIGEON LOFTS LARGEST IN THE WEST

MANY PEOPLE VISIT GLENDALE LOFTS AT OPENING SATURDAY AND SUNDAY—EIGHT THOUSAND BIRDS OF RARE BREEDS IN CAPTIVITY ARE BEAUTIFUL SIGHT—LOFTS CONTAIN ENTIRE STUD OF THE FAMOUS A. B. WOODS ESTATE

An event unique in the history of the San Fernando valley and one of much importance to the people of this community, as well as to those more directly concerned, was the opening of the Glendale Pigeon Lofts at Colorado boulevard and Verdugo road in East Glendale Saturday and Sunday, when more than eight thousand feathered aristocrats gave a reception, as it were, to the general public. The guests were many and numbered interested spectators from Los Angeles, Pasadena, San Francisco and Oakland.

These pigeon lofts are located in one of the most charming spots in Southern California, nestling among the brilliant greenery of orange and lemon groves in the very shadow of the picturesque and beautiful Verdugo hills. Not only are they beautiful for situation, but the location is ideal from a practical point of view, on a magnificent boulevard connecting San Fernando valley points with Los Angeles and Pasadena and adjacent to the new East Glendale loop of the Pacific Electric line.

We owe a debt to the community in which we reside to make ourselves familiar with the institutions and enterprises of our city so that we may be able more intelligently to sing the praises of this particular beauty spot and win others to establish their homes within the confines of the Jewel City. In response to this spirit of patriotism, as well as to the spirit of curiosity, the people of Glendale and surrounding country, as well as pigeon fanciers from abroad, responded to the hearty invitation to attend the opening of the pigeon lofts on Saturday and Sunday, July 11 and 12. Those previously not familiar with the extent of this enterprise were indeed surprised that an institution of such proportions had been in the process of building in Glendale for the past eight months.

The Glendale Pigeon Lofts are absolutely the largest pigeon lofts west of Chicago, and their leading competitor on the Pacific coast, who was a visitor here, was heard to remark that it was the largest, finest and most complete plant he had ever seen.

Four things especially impressed The News reporter at first sight of the pigeon lofts: The beauty of the location and the charm of the surroundings, the absolute cleanliness and perfect sanitation observed, the immensity of the plant, and the large size of the birds.

A neat and cozy little bungalow office, flanked with a pretty green lawn and flowers, in the shade of orange trees, is where the business of this large enterprise is transacted and the valuable records and pedigrees of the birds are filed.

Everything about the place is absolutely clean, which is surprising when it is considered that there are more than eight thousand birds in captivity. There are forty-three individual runt pens and 168 flies. These flies are 20 feet long, 9 feet wide and 7 feet high. Each fly contains 48 birds. Looking down the five long rows of flies, 328 feet long and which seem to end in the dim distance, with the birds of various hues of plumage flying about, is indeed a beautiful sight, and one which you would have to travel many miles from Glendale to see elsewhere.

There are eight varieties of birds in captivity at the Glendale Pigeon Lofts and those who imagined that they were going to see ordinary wild pigeons flying around in cages, were speedily disillusioned. These birds are of immense size, compared to the common pigeon. Truly this is a place to delight the heart of the pigeon fancier, for here are superb specimens of the Giant California Runts, both Blue and Silver, and White Kings, White Runts, Polish Lynx, Runt Maltese Crosses, Belgian Carneaux and Scandareens, all utility breeds and all confined in pens and flies attractively and neatly labeled.

In the Glendale Pigeon Lofts is the entire stud of the A. B. Woods Runts, purchased from the estate of A. B. Woods, who spent seventeen years in breeding these birds toward an ideal and his success was so marked that the A. B. Woods Runts are known the world over, in Crystal Palace, London, as well as in Glendale.

The Polish Lynx are beautiful birds, which originally came from Krakow, Russia. The Scandareens are almost a rarity, there being less than two hundred of this variety in the United States. The Belgian Carneaux, as the name indicates, originated in Belgium. The Glendale Pigeon Lofts have the largest collection of these birds in the state. The Maltese breeds had their beginning in the Isle of Malta. Their characteristics are broad, deep breasts and short bodies. Some Maltese hen pigeons, resembling little white Bantams, imported by the Glendale lofts from Switzerland, strut about the pens as if proud of their ancestry and present associates. The Runt Maltese breed was produced by crossing the Giant California Runts with this Maltese hen pigeon, and the result of this mating, as anticipated, is weight, some of the squabs tipping the scales at 2¼ pounds. A perfect specimen of the Giant California Runt squab, only four weeks and two days old, weighed thirty-six ounces.

The Glendale Pigeon Lofts are under the management of Mr. J. W. Walton, who is well known to pigeon breeders throughout the country for his untiring efforts to boost pigeon breeding. He has been an active breeder for twenty-five years, during which time he has bred nearly all varieties. His ability on all matters pertaining to pigeon culture has made his name familiar to all breeders and his association with western pigeon clubs as secretary, as well as his writings in the various pigeon magazines, have kept him in constant touch with the rapid advancement of pigeon breeding in general. Mr. Walton has learned that the best foods are economical in the long run, so the birds at the Glendale Pigeon Lofts dine on wheat, milo maise, Egyptian corn, King Philip Corn, Russian Vatch and Hemp Seed of the very best quality obtainable.

It seems incredible to the average person that so much time and money have been expended upon the Glendale Pigeon Lofts and as yet not a bird has been put upon the market. November 8, 1913, saw the very beginning of this enterprise, and since that time the management has been steadily building both in stock and in equipment, patiently and persistently breeding for certain ideals, infusing new blood and producing strong, vigorous birds, so that they may offer the public superior birds in point of size, shape, color and vigor. It is apparent to the visitor that this policy is a good one and the thousands of fine, strong, large birds are evidence of the wisdom of this procedure. No bird among the eight thousand at the Glendale Pigeon Lofts is worth less than $2. The Runts are valued at from $10 to $25 each and the pens contain many birds whose value exceeds the hundred dollar mark.

The Glendale Pigeon Lofts since their inauguration have taken all prizes at Pasadena, Los Angeles and Seattle shows on Runts.

At first thought the visitor to the Glendale Pigeon Lofts is led to think this a fad, but when the enormous expenditure is contemplated and one gets a faint perception of the ability required in breeding for desirable qualities as well as the work connected with the plant, it begins to look like a business proposition and a big one at that, one that is destined to grow still more, and of which Glendale may well be proud, for it will make her name known wherever pigeons are bred.

ENTERTAIN OLD FRIENDS

The home of Mr. and Mrs. V. E. Philp at 225 Orange street was the scene of a very happy reunion Sunday when they entertained a number of old-time friends at an old-fashioned chicken pie dinner. All kinds of beautiful summer blossoms were used to form a proper setting for such an occasion. White Shasta daisies and fern were used in the dining-room, where delicious chicken pie and all accessories were served and enjoyed by Mr. and Mrs. D. Mitchel of Boyle Heights, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Tee of Buena Park, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Hartley of Hollywood, Mr. Corl and Miss Corl of Highland Park, the host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. V. E. Philp, and sons, Robert T. and Thomas V. Philp.

Several of those present learned their A-B-C's together in Algonquin, Ills., and several had not met for thirty years. Pictures of the party were taken and the hours passed swiftly as they do when old friends get together.

Many are planning to take the "trip to Japan" as will be conducted by one of the local missionary societies in Glendale tomorrow evening.

MRS. R. W. MEEKER

REPUBLICAN CANDIDATE FOR GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF CALIFORNIA

A short sketch of the life of Mrs. Ella Florence Meeker, a candidate for the general assembly of the state of California from the sixty-first district will be of interest to her fellow townspeople of Glendale.

Mrs. Meeker is of a long line of patriots and politicians and is an ardent suffragist and intensely interested in all live questions of the day. Nevertheless, she had no desire for office until opportuned by prominent Republicans in the district, including Colonel Fredericks, when she saw her duty in the proper light and consequently her bonnet is in the ring.

Ella Florence Doughty was born in Louisville, Kentucky, some years ago—not so many. She is very proud of her ancestry, both her mother's and father's families tracing back to the early colonist times. Her intense patriotism and loyalty to all good causes come naturally to her, as her great grandfather was a soldier in the Revolution, her grandfather a lieutenant in the war of 1812, and her father a major in the Civil war. She numbers many eminent attorneys and jurists among her ancestors, both remote and immediate, in Kentucky, Illinois and New York.

Mrs. Meeker was reared in Illinois and educated in high school and a private seminary in that state. For the last fifteen years she has resided in California, where she made herself familiar with all the questions of state and national importance that confront the voter long before she won the right of franchise herself. She was one of the women who by their earnest devotion to the cause won the suffrage fight for the women of California.

This lady was married fifteen years ago to Mr. R. W. Meeker. They came to Glendale eight years ago and bought a home, but subsequently went to Oakland, where they lived for a time, returning to Glendale five years ago. They are very pleasantly located at 300 Colorado boulevard.

Mrs. Meeker has been endorsed by the Glendale Republican Club and other Republican organizations in the district. Her many friends are working in the interests of her candidacy and predict her success at the primaries August 25th and her ultimate triumph November 3.

GLENDALE IOWANS

Anyone who has ever looked over the Iowa register kept by the secretary of the Iowa Association, C. H. Parsons, must have been impressed with the great number registering from our prosperous and growing city and community. Wherever the Iowans settle in large numbers you may look for better conditions than would otherwise obtain, for they bring splendid morals and principles to any locality.

It is only natural that there should always be a deep interest in the announcements of the great annual gatherings of the Iowans of Southern California. The summer outing as the annual picnic at this season is called, will be held in Long Beach in beautiful Bixby park, which is only a few blocks east of the pier, all day Saturday, August the 8th.

No hot, dusty sands or indoors for Iowans—give the Hawkeyes the fresh air of the parks and plenty of grass and shade.

There will be a number of prizes awarded this year and a chance is given all from the old home state to enter the list in competition. From now on all Hawkeyes will talk and think picnic and thousands will wend their way to the park to meet the old home friends.

Almost every town and hamlet in Iowa will be represented and there will be many happy reunions. Pack up a good old-fashioned lunch and go down for the whole day with a smile and a glad hand for everybody.

FIRST M. E. BARACA CLASS NEWS NOTES

Mrs. Catherine Listman of Los Angeles spent Sunday in Glendale as an all-day guest in the home of Dr. and Mrs. D. W. Hunt, 121 West Fifth street.

TENNIS TOURNAMENT

FORMAL OPENING OF TENNIS COURT WITNESSED AND ENJOYED BY MANY

Between sixty and seventy local people attended the formal opening of the Men's Club tennis court Saturday afternoon, when Glendale boasted of many amateur tennis players who entered the free-for-all tournament that commenced at 2 o'clock Saturday and will continue through the week until Saturday, when the finals will be played.

Those who played Saturday were:

Men's Single Entries

Ray Morrow defeated H. H. Faries, 6-3.

H. N. Moore defeated Miller Holman, 6-3.

Alexander Badger defeated H. Preeman.

M. Preeman defeated Norman Badger.

H. West defeated R. D. White.

The only lady single entries were the Misses Zelia Cook and Catherine Green and after a very exciting and close set, with the result in favor of Miss Green, Miss Cook surprised everyone and succeeded in winning the set.

Blue satin ribbons with gold inscriptions were given the winners as mementos of the occasion.

In the mixed doubles Alexander Badger and Zeila Cook defeated H. H. Faries and Amy Bowerfind.

H. N. Moore and Catherine Green defeated Norman Badger and Fern Cook.

Conclusive of the afternoon's games most of the onlookers adjourned to the church hall, where a delicious repast was enjoyed.

LOCAL AVIATORS ENJOY FLIGHT AT MIDNIGHT

Finding the daily routine of life somewhat monotonous here on earth, Walter Brookins and Ralph Newcomb, two well-known men in the field of aviation, took it upon themselves to hold a midnight counsel with Venus and other heavenly stars by guiding that pretty little aircraft of Mr. Newcomb's one thousand feet above Mother Earth. This little tete-a-tete took place last Friday evening between the hours of 11:30 and 12 o'clock and was of twenty-five minutes' duration.

Of course, this brief flirtation with the twinkling stars was splendidly chaperoned by Madame Full Moon, who was ably supported by a dazzling searchlight attached to the biplane and a glorious night.

Quite naturally, the experience was most wonderful and thrilling, especially when a huge fog bar rolled over the mountain tops and encircled the daring aviators within its dense embrace, but undauntedly the birdmen flew on and quickly escaped its bondage.

Guided by skilled hands at the lever and a monstrous crackling fire at the far end of the field, these well-known aeronauts landed in safety, and are most jubilant, yet reticent, over their new and wholly delightful experience.

Sunday morning Mr. Brookins spent close onto two hours in the sky and so high did he go that many gazed on with awe while others followed his rapid pace in envious admiration.

A FISH STORY

C. A. Wilkinson, accompanied by his brother-in-law, Charles Sticher, who recently arrived from Kansas, journeyed to Long Beach Sunday, where they took a fishing launch and when several miles out from shore they cast their lines into the briny deep. From that moment the excitement began and these two fishers pulled in ten fine albacore weighing from 16 to 33 pounds each. When the entire day's catch was weighed up, it was found that the two fishermen had caught 225 pounds, while the boat brought in 1000 pounds in all. Mr. Sticher's friends back east may doubt this story, as fish stories are always taken with a grain of allowance back there. Nevertheless, all things are possible in California and the old Pacific is broad and deep. Mr. Wilkinson tells a fish story about every six months and as he seems perfectly honest during the balance of the year, we never doubt his word on these semi-annual occasions.

A WORD WITH YOUNG MEN

It is as easy to be a great man as a poor one. Half the energy displayed in keeping ahead that is required to catch up when behind would save credit, give more time to business and add to the profit and reputation of those who work for gain, says a writer in "Work With Boys." Be prompt, keep your word, honor your engagements. If you promise to meet a man, or do anything at a certain moment, be ready at the appointed time.

If you go out on business, attend promptly to the matter on hand, then as promptly go about your own business.

Do not stop to tell stories in business hours. If you have a place of business, be found there when wanted. Have order, system, regularity, liberality, promptness. Do not meddle with business you know nothing about. Strive to avoid harsh words and personalities. Do not kick every stone in the path; more miles can be made in a day by going steadily on than by stopping to kick. Pay as you go. A man of honor respects his word as he does his bond. Aid, but never give what you cannot afford simply because it is fashionable. Learn to say no; no necessity of snapping it out dog fashion, but say it firmly and respectfully. Have but few confidants—the fewer the better. Use your own brains rather than those of others. Learn to think and act for yourself. Be vigilant. Keep ahead rather than behind times. Young man, cut this out, and if there be folly in the arguments, let us know.

PRIMARY ELECTION AUGUST 25

The primary election to choose candidates for the various offices in the state and county will be held August 25th. The campaign of the various aspirants is deluging this office as well as the offices of the other newspapers with literature and requests for publicity, says the Van Nuys News.

It would require much more space than we have available and would cost us more than our bank account could stand to print all these euconiums, so the News will present only for the notice of our readers political announcements that have been paid for at the regular standard rates adopted by the various county papers.

Political advertising in newspapers is perfectly legitimate and when paid for does not place the management of a paper in the position of endorsing any candidacy. The men who are now using our columns to speak to you and solicit your votes are entitled to your consideration. They have taken this method of reaching you and we think it is the best.

Merrill Workman, a Redlands boy, was lured to a lonely spot in the edge of town, beaten into insensibility and robbed. He is at the hospital in a precarious condition.

The quarantine barge Disinfectant has been placed in Los Angeles harbor by the federal authorities and it will be necessary no longer to send infected boats to San Diego or San Francisco.

TO EMPTY PENITENTIARY

Governor Cole L. Blease of South Carolina, who has pardoned twelve hundred convicts in the last three years, means to clean out the state penitentiary by August 1, turn it into a hospital and end by showing clemency to more men than any other governor on the American continent.

"I have no apology for a single parole, commutation or pardon that I have granted," says the governor. "I work by the golden rule, and whoever objects to that isn't a Christian, but a plain hypocrite. If all the men guilty of crime were tried many gentlemen in high places might be removed to prison cells.

"If God in his all-wise providence some dark night at the hour of twelve should let the broad sunlight burst loose on the earth, what stumbling and hustling there would be from vicious places to keep the eyes of man from seeing. In my opinion there will be more souls lost through hypocricy than through all the other crimes in the decalogue.

"You hear from your pulpits 'help the heathen,' but when one helps a fellow countryman and attempts to bring out the good in him and give him another chance in life, the same people yell 'pardoning too many people.' It is easy to criticize, easy to talk, but if you will look into your prisons, into your penitentiaries and into your chain gangs, as I have done, you will surely reach the conclusion that these are the people that are spoken of in the expression, 'the least of these.'"

The constitution of South Carolina gives the governor absolute power to liberate violators of the criminal code. Neither the courts nor the general assembly can stay his hand. The men paroled by the governor are as free as those pardoned outright. The state has no system of tracing paroled prisoners, and the task of gathering them together would be impossible.

Although no record is kept to show the race of prisoners liberated, the governor believes that more than half of them have been negroes. To this he points as proof that no consideration except mercy moves him in behalf of prisoners.

Governor Blease's leniency has made him a target for criticism in all sections of the United States. In reply to this, he says:

"If my friends are pleased, I am overjoyed. If my enemies are not pleased, I can't help it, and their sweating and fuming will avail them nothing."

The press agents of the hord of candidates will confer a favor upon this office if they will observe the old newspaper rules in preparing copy, i. e., use white paper and write only on one side of same. If this suggestion is followed we can use all they send. The reverse side makes good copy paper. — Downey Champion.

THRIFT OF FRENCH SHOWN IN LOAN SUBSCRIPTIONS

Let no one attempt to gainsay the fact that the French people are wondrously thrifty. Here is a fugitive item, culled from the daily news dispatches, that illustrates strikingly the fruits of the thriftiness so characteristic of the present-day Frenchman.

The French government is offering a new 3½ per cent loan of $161,000,000. The French public has applied for more than forty times the amount of this loan! In other words, there is more than enough ready cash today in France seeking investment to liquidate the entire national debt of France. And France, be it remembered, because of its unfortunate experience in the war with Germany in the early '70's, has the greatest debt of any nation on earth —$6,280,000,000. And yet the grand total of public offerings to take over portions of this government loan ran to the almost inconceivable sum of $6,500,000,000!

Material wealth alone does not constitute national greatness. But a nation that has such immense aggregate wealth, so widely distributed among its people, is in thriving condition.

PROSPERITY SIGNS MULTIPLY

From the East come apparently reliable reports that the Pennsylvania railroad is putting thousands of its employees, laid off some time ago, back to work on full time; also that this great transportation company is proceeding with its projected building of new locomotives. Along the Atlantic seaboard, where the Pennsylvania railroad, in its activities or inactivities, is accepted as a barometer of business and industrial conditions, this latest promising development is hailed as an indication of an early renewal of generally prosperous conditions throughout the great industrial regions of the East. Frequently reports of renewed activities in various part of the country are sent out by responsible news associations. It seems evident that this year, as in 1912, the great normal business and industrial operations are not to be halted and demoralized because of the political campaign.

NORTHERN BAPTIST CONVENTION

Baptists made history at Boston, Mass., during the recent sessions of the northern Baptist convention. Thousands of delegates from every corner of the United States crowded the Tremont temple at morning, noon and night for eight days. One hundred thousand dollars was the estimated cost of this convention, and even that enormous sum was well spent and will undoubtedly result in returns a thousand-fold.

Both Northern and Southern California were represented by a large delegation, one of whom was Rev. John H. Troy, pastor of the First Baptist church in Glendale. The enthusiasm of the West carried the convention for Los Angeles in 1915. Dr. Brougher responded to the invitation on behalf of the Baptists of the Pacific coast in his characteristic, humorous and appropriate manner.

Sunday evening at the First Baptist church Pastor Troy told the story of the northern Baptist convention to an interested audience. He especially emphasized the loyalty of Baptists to their distinctive principles, and especially to the word of God as the all-sufficient rule for faith and practice. The spirit of evangelism is stirring the Baptist ministers and even among laymen a great work for the salvation of souls is going on. Cortland Myers' dramatic appeal along the line of passion for souls was worth the trip across the continent and his matchless recitation of the "Ninety and Nine" will surely never be forgotten by the thousands who were fortunate enough to hear him.

The Judson centennial was a fitting climax to the big time in Boston. Interest in the exercises was greatly increased by the presentation of "An Adventure of Faith," a thrilling missionary drama, given by very clever young people at Jordan hall afternoons and evenings. The story of the sublime faith and endurance of Adoniram Judson and his even greater wife, Ann Hasseltine, could not have been made more vivid. Many supplemented the drama with an historic excursion to Malden, there to ramble among the actual scenes of the beginning of Baptist missions in America. It was simply one thrill after another.

"Beautiful nurse you have."

"Is she?" murmured the patient feebly. "I hadn't noticed."

"Great Scott, old man, I had no idea you were so sick!"

But two or three property owners on South Brand boulevard observed "clean-up day" by having the debris removed from vacant premises. There is enough discolored paper, paper rubbish and bits of wood pulp lying around on the streets, alleys and open lots of Glendale to furnish some ambitious citizen with sufficient raw material to operate a paper mill for twelve months.

Mrs. Spychlasky, a recent patient at Thornycroft hospital, was taken to her home on Cedar street the last of the week just passed and is rapidly recovering from an operation for appendicitis.

Mr. Rables of Verdugo road and Dr. Nat Green of East Ninth street enjoyed a wildly exciting and thoroughly enjoyable tennis game on the splendid farm court Sunday.

Clark, mother of the departed, will be a guest at the farm during her daughter's absence.

DIRECTOR HOME FROM TRIP

It's the old, old story! Just a case of California idolatry claiming Burton King, manager and director of the Glendale Usona photo-play company, as a recent victim. That is to say, after an absence of two weeks, during which time Mr. King traveled a distance of 6412 miles to his former home and birthplace, New York City, this pleasant gentleman gladly and generously announces his delight at being once again in the glorious state of California and Los Angeles.

One so seldom hears a real New Yorker laud the wonders and shout forth praises of any but their home city, that it sounds a wee bit strange, or should we say, unusual to find an occasional true admirer, who thinks there is really no place just like California?

Perhaps Mr. King's vocation in life has something to do with his gladness at being home again, for you know he always speaks of this as home, and also as being the most wonderful place in the states when it comes to making pictures.

Work was commenced this morning on a two-reel comedy drama entitled "The Return of Soapweed Scotty," with all the Usona members in the cast, said members having extended a cordial and hearty welcome to their beloved director, who is very happy to return to his work.

Mr. King and his company of regular players will later go to Lake Tahoe, where some splendid features will be produced.

Turkey protesting against Uncle Sam! The mosquitoes appear to be troublesome this summer.

TROPICO

The Monday evening soiree with which Miss Helen Beatrice Cooper and her mother, Mrs. Mary Edwards, entertain each week at their home on Sixth street, complimentary to their friends, will be enjoyed this evening with M. R. Vance, a noted teacher of voice, as one of the honored guests. Monday evening, July 20, Miss Cooper will entertain with the soiree and a trip through Germany. The latter will consist of numerous photos and views of Germany, places visited by Mrs. Edwards and Miss Cooper while abroad. Several prominent artists will attend.

Mr. and Mrs. Eustace Benton Moore entertained with a dinner party at their home on Blanche avenue Sunday, at which the complimented guests were Mr. and Mrs. Milton Thompson and daughters, Misses Naoma and Miriam Thompson, of Glendale. The table was centered with a large bowl of white and red roses with a graceful arrangement of ferns. Mrs. Thompson is a sister of Mr. Moore.

Mrs. Dwight Griswold of San Fernando boulevard, who has been visiting the past three months in Indiana and Kansas, will return home the first of August.

Miss Anna Anderson and sister, Miss Elsie Anderson of Virginia place entertained as over-Sunday guests Mrs. Margaret Stockwell and daughter, Mrs. Frank Dolcater of Los Angeles.

Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Bahrenberg of "Twin Pines" were the guests at a luncheon of Los Angeles friends on Sunday.

Daniel Webster, one of the city trustees of Tropico, has returned from a few days' business trip to El Centro and the famous Imperial valley.

Mrs. Helen Roberts and daughter, Miss Helen Roberts, of El Paso, Tex., are the house guests of Mrs. Mary Edwards and Miss Helen Beatrice Cooper.

Edward Clarence Shuey of Columbus avenue and James L. Fishback of West Park avenue are enjoying a few days camping near Roscoe.

The Tropico library board meets this evening for the regular monthly meeting at the library building.

W. C. T. U.

Friday afternoon the beautiful new home of Miss Olive Marsh on Cedar street was thrown open to the local White Ribboners for their regular meeting. The spacious rooms were well filled with earnest women, zealous in their work. Earnest discussion and plans for the work in general and for California a "dry," clean state were given interested attention.

Mrs. Smart, the president, introduced Mrs. Clara Parrish Wright, the speaker of the afternoon, with pleasing reference to the first time she met Mrs. Wright, then Miss Parrish, at a W. C. T. U. meeting in Boston in 1896 on the eve of her departure to the Orient as White Ribbon Missionary to promulgate the principles of the organization in those faraway lands, and spoke of the warm friendship that has existed through the years between her and Mrs. Cora Smart Root, who followed her as a world's representative of the White Ribbon work.

Mrs. Wright gave an interesting account of her introduction to the organization when a young woman, and of some of the hardships encountered in the then new field of temperance missions, which were more trying oftentimes than of the church missionary. She spoke of pleasant memories as one of the compensations, and gave a humorous and interesting recital of her visit, while attending the international convention in London, England, to Eastmar castle, the home of Lady Henry Somerset, who was then vice-president of the world's organization, and a warm friend and admirer of Miss Frances Willard.

After her return to the United States, though in failing health, Mrs. Wright served most efficiently for several years as national and world's secretary of the young women's branch of the work. She has had a wide experience and far vision of the scope of the work. She spoke of the growth and advance of the women since those days, and paid a warm tribute to the Glendale Union for their manner of conducting meetings and apparent zeal in the cause.

Mrs. Wright is now located in Glendale and will be "at home" Thursday afternoons to callers at 606 Adams street.

The next meeting will be held at the new residence of the president, Mrs. Smart, 250 Verdugo road.

A DIFFERENCE

The total assessed valuation of Long Beach for the ensuing year is about $30,000,000, but the entire population of that place confesses to having only about $90,000 in cash as taxable assets. The land values are visible and the work of the assessor in that respect is simple and convincing. This recalls the story of the investor in strange parts. He asked an old farmer, "How does the land lie around here?"

"It ain't the land," replied the farmer, "It's them dad blasted agents that does the lying."—Santa Monica Outlook.

WHAT'S THE USE?

After all is said and done, it must be summed up in this: We need very little in this world, but, most of us are of the opinion that the other fellow needs something that he has not got and we are attempting to supply his needs by separating him from that which he is trying to get from us. What a selfish proposition it is, at best. We work a little to earn a little money to get a little more to eat and to wear to give us a little more strength to earn a little more money to get a little more food, to give us a little more strength and ambition to earn a lit—Oh, what's the use?—Prof. B. CONSERVING PRODUCTIVE FORCES

The work of conservation is so broad in its scope as to take in every human activity and no department of it is more important than that which has to do with the building up of the vital productive forces of the individual citizen. That the education of illiterate workers comes well within this classification was clearly shown by P. P. Claxton, United States commissioner of education to the Industrial League conference on adult illiteracy at New York recently.

Mr. Claxton opened his argument with the somewhat startling statement that the illiteracy of adult workers was costing this nation in the neighborhood of $500,000,000 a year. This was based upon the accepted economic estimate that the difference between the yearly output of the laborer who is educated and the one who is not is about $100. As the census shows there were more than 5,500,000 people of more than ten years in this country in 1910 who could neither read nor write, his total is evidently well within the truth.

In the course of the address a large proportion of this illiteracy was shown to be in the southern states. These states suffer in all such comparisons from their large percentage of colored population, affording nearly half of the uneducated of the nation. At the same time there are a large number of the native born whites in that section who have had absolutely no schooling, some counties reporting as high as 40 per cent of white voters who cannot read their ballots.

Taking the country as a whole, much of the illiteracy may be charged to the constant influx of ignorant foreigners. This is especially true of the eastern states, where so many of that class settle, in many cases driving out the educated Americans whose places they are brought here to fill. In the face of these facts Mr. Claxton is confident there is no real reason why there should be seventy uneducated out of every one thousand of population in this country, while in Germany and Scandinavia the ratio is only three to the thousand.

At the close of the discussion the conference adopted resolutions calling upon employers through the country to provide schools for the education of their employees who were needing such aid, and to do it in a manner which would not cause any loss in pay to the men who would take advantage of the opportunity. In support of their plea for these educational advantages they called the attention of the employers to the yearly gain they would make through the increased efficiency of the men, as has already been proven by the work of this kind done by some of the largest of the eastern manufacturing establishments. There can be little question as to the commercial as well as the national value of this movement and it seems to be meeting with the approval of the larger employers, wherever they have been brought to study it carefully enough to form an opinion.

SPACE AND MATTER

Herbert Spencer says space is coexistent positions that show no resistence, while matter is coexistent positions in space that show resistence.

We would say that space is distance or room in any and every direction from any point in which things and beings exist and occur. But if "matter is coexistent positions that offer resistence," then if position is only a point and "a point is only position without extension," then matter is nothing. But matter is something that exists having extension. It also has other traits, as weight, or gravity, attraction, size, form, color, hardness, toughness, brittleness, elasticity, ductility, maleability, inertia, affinity, divisibility, impenatribility, crystallization and utility or purpose. But none of these traits belong to nothing. So nothing is not matter.

It has been said that the ultimate central element of matter is force. Someone has said that matter is the result of antagonistic spirits in space. Is it not better to say that matter is the effect of opposing forces in space? Is not matter something created by God as a means by which spirits may work out their purposes? All matter shows by its constitution, structure and condition that it began, was begun, and is not eternal. Of course it must have a beginner who is eternal, not begun.

All kinds of matter has a purpose and each its own. We find about seventy-five kinds of matter according to their various purposes and use. The first characteristic of matter is purpose. This lies back of and runs centrally through and in all else, and is the basis of all other traits. Every purpose must have a beginning and so a beginner, a purposer. The first existence of which we conceive or know is spirit. The first fact and principle of which we conceive or know is purpose, and the first law is that of causality.

Every effect must have a cause and the pith of that law is purpose. Purpose is first and always in the cause. The same purpose is in the process and identically the same purpose is ever in the effect. This is the bar that binds the two ever together.

Purpose is a thing, a fact, and everything and fact has a purpose always. Hence, is this eternal law? In every act, action and fact of every intelligent actor in whatever they differ, as they do in many things rightly, they all agree in this always. They have a purpose in all they do or try.

Purpose then is at the start and the basis of creation. And a personal, eternal spirit and purposer and not "persistent force," is at the head of the universe. The ultimate, central, universal principle of creation, nature, history, providence, the Bible, religion, science, philosophy and art is a personal, divine purpose. What is it?

AVIATORS FOOLHARDY

Death will claim Lieutenant Porte and his companion as new victims of aviation on their attempted flight across the Atlantic in the hydro-aeroplane, "America," predicts Jack Irwin, stationed in Seattle as superintendent of the northern division of the Marconi wireless.

Irwin was wireless operator with Walter Wellman's ill-fated expedition in the airship, "America," which was wrecked by a hurricane 1008 miles at sea, October 15, 1910, on the start of a trans-Atlantic flight.

"I don't believe there is a gas engine made that will stand the strain of such a long flight," said Irwin. "Lieutenant Porte's engines will have to run under a tremendous load for about twenty-five continuous hours. The hope of such a flight is in the engine.

"Some day, when a more reliable engine is made, the trans-Atlantic trip will be possible. Lieut. Porte is taking greater chances with his life than we did aboard the old "America." The Atlantic is very fickle. If he should have to land on the water I would not envy him in his predicament. However, my good wishes and admiration will go with him."

NEW MOWN HAY ON AUTO TRUCK

Bringing in the new mown hay fresh and odorous from the fields on big motor trucks is the latest stunt in the agricultural line here. This afternoon a big five-ton truck, laden with a big load of green, rural smelling alfalfa rolled along Colorado boulevard at a rate of ten miles an hour. There were two men seated in the cab of the truck, and both were taking life easy as they breezed along. Motor trucks are used here every day in hauling baled hay for local feed stores, but this is the first time one has seen here hauling in loose hay fresh from the fields. — Pasadena News.
